CHANGES TO PASSPORT RENEWAL APPLICATIONS IN THE PHILIPPINES

On 16th September 2010, we will no longer be accepting British Passport Renewal Applications at the British Embassy Manila. As with other passport renewals across Asia, these will be processed by our Regional Passport Processing Centre in Hong Kong. This will not affect the present four-week turn-around time expected. All renewal applications will therefore have to be sent by the applicant directly to Hong Kong. The Embassy will be unable to process renewal applications or send them on to Hong Kong.

This information is also posted on our website (www.ukinthephilippines.fco.gov.uk) and disseminated via LOCATE mass e-mail.

If you are applying for a British Passport for the first time (and are not simply renewing your present passport), we will continue to accept your applications at this Embassy.
